M'RAE DISTRICT FARMERS REBUILD IMPASSABLE ROAD

McRAE—Days of co-operation are far from dead. Roads in the McRae district, being in a deplorable state, were ganged upon by district farmers. A 2½-mile stretch of impassable road was reconstructed.

Appeals had been made to the government for its support, but since the support didn't seem to be forthcoming, the farmers went to work.

Sugden district is only a matter of seven miles away in winter, but is 45 miles away for car traffic during most of the summer. A bulldozer trail was built three years ago but no draining, culverts were placed to protect from flooding. Several promises have been made for a permanent road but promises do not stand up well in a rainy season.

The bad drouth of the last three years and the damaging hail of the present year has not dimmed the enthusiasm of this district. The opening of this road is a friendly gesture to our neighbors at Sugden who have always attended and exchanged crowds at social events in these two near districts . . . when roads were passable!

William Tkachuk and John Darda were on Fresnors, Bill Karpyshyn handled the plowing with George Bobocels' tractor. Ray Whitford hauled the machinery to and from work and helped Bill with the plow. Martin Tkachuk, Eddy Whitford, Stanley Gegewich the labor end. Frank Mason was also there for a couple of hours. George Bobocel gave the use of his tractor two days as did Wm. Tkachuk. N. Thompson worked on the grade fills.

New Grain Storage Capacity At Lac La Biche

LAC LAC BICHE—The United Grain Growers of Lac la Biche have increased the storage capacity of their elevator here by two-thirds with the addition of a new grain annex.

Like other grain centres, Lac la Biche district farmers are going to be faced with grain storage problems due to expected high yields and the nation-wide problem of getting heavy crop transported to shipping ports. But added to this is the fact that in the past several years thousands of new acres of cultivated land have been broken and no new grain storage has been built here in all that time.

The Chamber of Commerce is urging that other elevator companies come in and build and it is hoped that at least one more elevator will be put up here before another crop year begins.

Lions Plan Big Events This Fall

LAC LA BICHE — Members of the Lac la Biche Lions Club are planning big entertainment events this fall to raise funds for the building of a curling rink. An amateur night, fall carnival, and turkey bingo are being planned for, with announcement of dates of these events as soon as the district farmers have finished threshing operations. Last year the Lions put on their first turkey bingo which was an outstanding success. Members are enthusiastic not only for the building of the curling rink, which will add greatly to the recreation facilities of the town, but which will also enable them to hold these entertainments which are enjoyed by young and old.

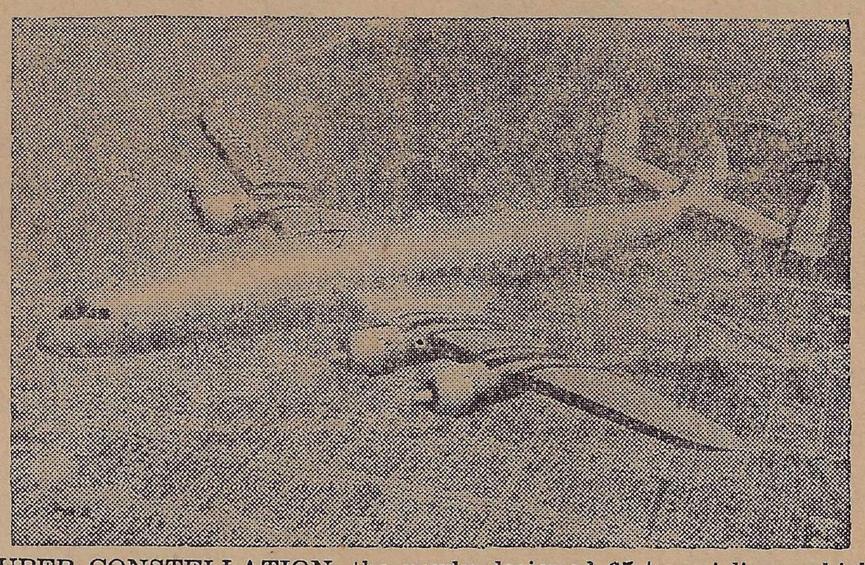

Further details as plans are developed will be published in the Lac la Biche Herald.

Scores Hunt For Lost Child

LAC LA BICHE—For a few hours one day last week, scores of residents of Lac la Biche and Plamondon and district were alerted to what was feared might be a prolonged search for the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rudigar, well known garage man here.

Mr. Rudigar drove to Plamondon corner with Mrs. Rudigar and the children, and while they stopped off to tend their garden there, he drove on to make a call at Plamonton. Unnoticed, the little fellow wandered off by himself and the family could not find him. An alarm was given and volunteer searchers from as far away as Lac la Biche came to assist in the widened search.

Just as hope was being given up for finding young Leon, one of the searchers. Mr. Schawb of Plamondon located him in a rose bush. It was dusk and Leon, though lost, was preparing to go to sleep by taking off his clothes. To everyone's satisfaction he did go to sleep—in his own bed.

PRESIDENT, TOR AMERICAN OIL CO. SAYS NEW WELLS NEAR BONNYVILLE

Clifford R. J. Smith of Montreal and Toronto, who is visiting in Edmonton, said that the Tor American Oil Company Ltd. plans on drilling 10 more wells in the Bonnyville area this year.

Mr. Smith conferred Thursday at the Macdonald with J. W. Carroll and W. D. Williams, drilling contractors for Tor American.

With its associate, Trinity Oil Co., Tor American holds 40,000 acres of petroleum reservations in the Bonnyville region, said Mr. Smith.

The development is being financed by eastern Canada capital.

Tor American has drilled five wells in the Bonnyville district. Three of these were oil producers which now are on the pump, one a gas well, while the fifth is being completed as an oil well. A sixth well was "spudded in" Tuesday.

New "Bay" Manager Arrives From B.C.

LAC LA BICHE — On Saturday, E. H. Martin, former manager of the Hudson's Bay Store at Hazleton, B.C., arrived with his family in Lac la Biche to take over charge of the Company's Store.

He replaces Mr. M. S. Cook, who opened the store on behalf of the Company in 1946 and who has recently been transferred to Fort St. John. The Company's Managers' home, formerly occupied by the Cook family, will now be the residence of Mr. Martin and family.

N. W. Franchuk acted as Assistant Manager during the interim period. While a resident of Lac la Biche, Mr. Cook was active in community affairs and took a sincere interest in the progress of Lac la Biche.

Interviewed upon arrival in town, Mr. Martin stated he was glad to be back in Alberta. He is familiar with this part of the country, having been stationed for some time at Cold Lake. He says he will miss the rainy B.C. weather — without regret. Incidentally, the weatherman in Lac la Biche put on the best display of the year with temperatures in the high 70's for the Martins' first week end in their new home.

Demand for Price Controls

The Canadian Labor groups meeting in convention in Halifax have reiterated their stand that Price Controls should be re-imposed. The steady increase in the cost of living leads us to believe that some form of price control is necessary. But how much and what form it should take seems to be anybody's guess.

While some oppose the Liberal government, just on general principles, for not imposing price controls, we should not overlook the opinions of those who can be considered independent in the political field. No speaker for any group is, we realize, completely free of political opinion, but when national leaders of labor groups, representing all political opinions rise to speak we feel they should be heard.

This problem of inflation and high cost-of-living is too deadly a weapon to be booted about in the political arena. In his recent radio broadcast Prime Minister St. Laurent stated his views, and those of his government, in simple terms of truth and logic. Apparently he refuses to concede that credit restrictions alone can remedy the situation. He fails to see that any system of price control now is workable.

Nobody doubts the sincerity of the Government leader, and there is no doubt but that credit restrictions are necessary to curb inflation. We maintain, however, that some price controls are necessary, too. They have halted a rise in the cost of living index in the United States since spring. Credit restrictions alone in Canada have not halted the rising cost of living. Is any further argument necessary?

Beware of Quacks

This country has the most abundant and nutritious food supply, and is enjoying the best health of any nation in history.

So beware of food quacks, who tell us that our food is of poor quality and that we are suffering from malnutrition.

Such quacks asset that every disease, from cancer and heart failure to irritability and insomnia, is caused by malnutrition. Then, they insist, that we can't get well and stay well, or look younger or live longer, unless we supplement our diet with their particular kind of some outlandish food, usually unpalatable, or start dosing ourselves with some simple vitamin or mineral mixture.

A vigorous campaign of spreading the truth is needed in this country and the people ought to have the facts in order to avoid the consequences of believing all that the quacks assert about new food discoveries and new medical marvels.

Epic of the North

As this is written a new search is being conducted in the northland for Johnny Bourassa, Peace River bush pilot who is now known to have walked off alive from his crashed plane near Yellowknife.

It is possible his fate will be known by the time this is read.

Whatever has happened, Bourassa has carved out another epic of the northland. When his plane crashed, May 18, he left his now famous message that he was "walking out."

Whatever he has encountered in the wilderness, there are high hopes he will be found alive. Men of Bourassa's sturdiness are few these days. But those who know him are quite confident he has the courage and strength to conquer the wilderness.

See the Birdie

By JACK SCOTT

Jack Scott

My suspicion of photographers goes clear back to the one who placed me on a shawl, stomach down, naked as an apple, and created a family joke that lasted 30 years.

This was a cowardly thing to do to a child as bare and helpless as that one. I recall nothing of the event, personally, but from the pained look on that puckered puss and the pure malevolence in the eye, I know that I was not happy.

A hunting acquaintance, on getting his first sight of this picture in the family album, described it perfectly. He said it looked like something that could be nicely mounted over the fireplace in his den

This was my first painful experience with the sadistic breed known as studio photographers, but not the last.

The next occasion on which I was propped in front of the lens had a profound effect on my life. This was for the purpose of the high school annual. I was at that age when a boy begins not only to peer at himself thoughtfully in mirrors, but, behind locked doors, juggles two mirrors to get the truth on his profile. I had (and, some say, still possess) a profile like an eager wart hog and this seemed true, no matter which way the mirrors were tilted.

Yet that picture presented my face as a thing both handsome and serene. The face itself was diffused beyond recognition, but at that time my hair was rather distinctive, resembling a clump of wild prairie grass, and I was thus able to positively identify myself as this beautiful thing.

I suppose that was when I began to be insufferable.

I am convinced that all studio photographers operate alike.

The modern technique of course, is to emphasize the "naturalness" of the subject. To this end, the photographer places his victim on a hard stool, twists his neck around, pulls his chin in, commands the poor sap to smile (although he may not have smiled in 40 years), and then goes away somewhere, perhaps for a cup of tea, leaving the customer in this tortured position, the first clear flame of hatred burning inside.

At best, most of us are inclined to feel a certain strangeness before the cold, unblinking eye of the camera. On our face comes the expectant look of a man blowing up a cheap balloon.

The Smile, itself, is a weak baring of the teeth, the false simper a man gives to near relatives on being trundled off to the operating room. The eyes are glassy and full of deep distrust.

The photographer himself bustles about, prodding his subject into new and more agonizing postures and occasionally disappearing under a black tent behind the camera where he gives muffled instructions, waves an arm vigorously at the sufferer and may perhaps brew another pot of tea.

Then come the lights. This is the most hideous part of all. Once bathed in this blinding glare, all semblance of poise leaves the normal human being. He is trapped like an escaped convict in a spotlight beam. His collar begins to wilt, the perspiration streams from his brow and his one thought is to escape before he is fried to a crisp. At this precise moment the photographer takes the picture.

Mercifully enough, no one ever knows what this looks like in its crude state. Soon after the customer has escaped into the outside world a crew of oil painters is set loose on the result and work long into the night, reducing large noses, putting firm chins on weaklings, hair on baldies and generally fashioning a face of distinction.

The finished masterpiece, presumably re-photographed under water, is immediately called a "remarkable likeness" by all the subject's true friends and as the years go by he may even begin to believe it himself.

School Patrols

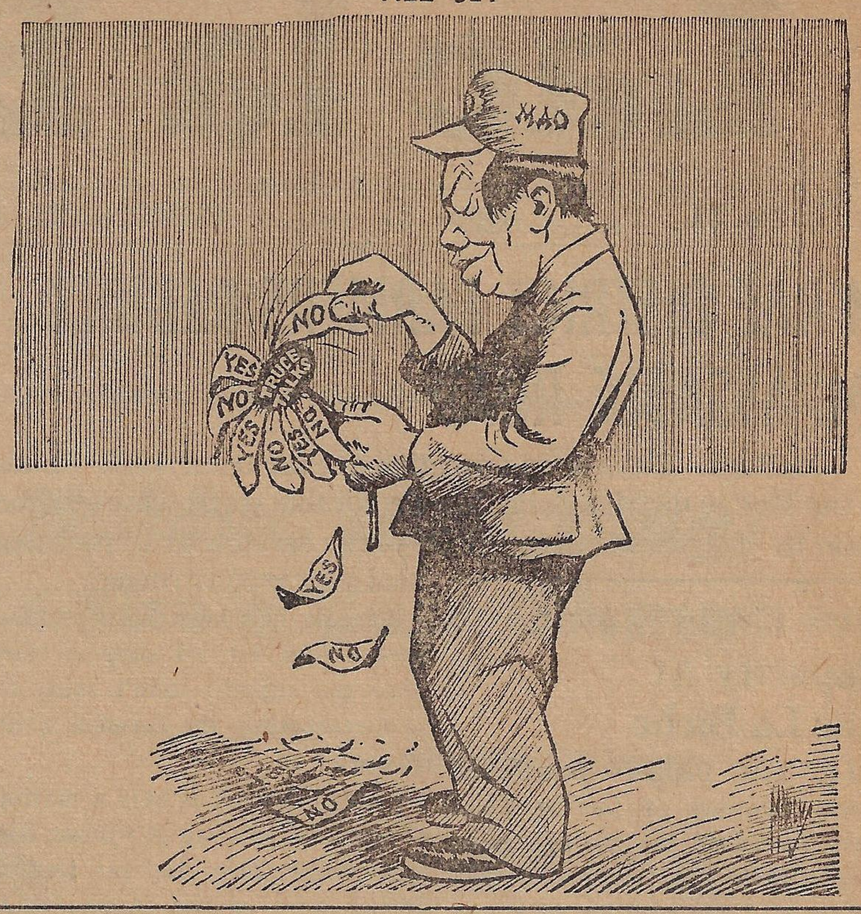

(From Voice of Motordom)

Alberta's schools have reopened for the 1951-52 terms, following the two-month vacation. More than 160,000 children will be back at their studies.

For many parents, there will be a renewed feeling of confidence in the safety of their youngsters while crossing streets or roadways because of the safety patrols sponsored by the Alberta Motor Association.

The A.M.A. sash worn by the patrols again marks these students as "sentinels of safety," doing a dual job in safety and good citizenship that augurs well for their future.

"ALL SET"

Hunt Mystery Whale

OTTAWA—The Department of Fisheries hopes to solve the mystery of the Pacific coast whale through a newly-developed method of tagging the big mammal.

Fisheries department scientists say the tagging operation may mean that the life history of several species of Pacific whale may soon become a matter of record.

At present, very little is known of the habits or movements of these whales during the winter and spring months. They mysteriously appear off the British Columbia coast and as far south as California in the early summer, but disappear in the early autumn. Fishermen and scientists never have been able to figure out what happens to them.

Knowledge of the habits of the whales in the winter and spring would be invaluable to the expending whale industry in British Columbia. The industry is able to operate only during the summer when whales appear in large groups, called "pods."

Scientiste conducting the tagging fire a small harpoon at the whale, piercing the blubber. The harpoon is marked with codes indicating the date and position of the whale, in the same manner fish are tagged.

The harpoon remains in the whale. It is small, and scientists say it causes no injury.

"When a percentage of these tagged whales are taken later in commercial operations, a good deal more should be known about them," a department spokesman said.

He said the tagging had not yet gone beyond the experimental stage. A number of whales have been tagged this year, but no large scale program has been instituted. Such a program will be undertaken if the current experiments prove the tagging will help the department to clear up the mystery of the Pacific whale.

The Pacific whales which have mystefied scientists for generations come in several varieties but can be classified into two groups: the toothed whale and the baleen whale.

Toothed whales include the sperm and bottlenose, which rarely appear in Pacific waters. The baleen type includes the blue finbacks, humpbacks, and sei.

The baleen whales stay fairly close to the surface, but the sperm whale can sound to great depths and stay submerged for as long as 45 minutes. The head of the sperm whale is one-third the length of its body.

The largest whale in the Pacific is the blue, which grows to a length of up to 100 feet.

Saskatoon May Become Producer Of Potash Supplies

UNITY, Sas. — Saskatchewan is on the verge of becoming the world's third largest producer of potash with the prospect of an unlimited market for the scarce mineral.

The discovery and quiet development of the vast potash deposit at Vera, 15 miles northwest of here, has reached the stage where mining engineers and geologists rate the bed the third largest potash field in the world, nodding only to those at Carlsbad, N.M., and Strassfurt, Germany.

The Vera field, being worked by the Western Potash Corp., is believed to be almost unlimited as a potash producer. Engineers say it extends at least 12 miles deep, but its width has not yet been measured. Further shafts will be sunk shortly to determine its exact size.

Census Insult May Cost Eastern City $36,000 In Taxes

MONCTON, N.B. — The City of Moncton feels it has been insulted by the census-taker. And the insult may cost money.

The census bureau's preliminary report showed this New Brunswick railway centre with a population of 27,127. The local board of assessors disagrees, saying Moncton has 30,285 inhabitants.

Mayor T. Babbitt Parlee says not only does this hurt civic pride, it may also result in loss of revenue. He says the city receives the federal grant to cities in lieu of taxes on the basis of population. At a minimum payment of $12 a head, the census figure, taken as the official one by federal authorities, would mean Moncton would lose more than $36,000.

Some residents have received census bureau forms designed to fill ir any gaps. Mayor Parlee says if this measure does not bring the population count up to the 30,000 mark he will seek a full-scale investigation and recount.

Kentville, N.S., also complained of bruised pride when it found the enumerators added only 301 citizens to the 1941 total of 4,229. Town Clerk A. T. MacDonald said more than 300 homes have been built in the last 10 years.

The government checked and found 500 patients in the tuberculosis sanitarium at the edge of town had been included in the 1941 census. The sanitarium's population was added to the figure for the surrounding municipal district this year.

PRESENTATION of ten bushels of grain by Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, to Lieut.-Gov. J. J. Bowlen, in His Honor's office in Edmonton, launched the fall campaign to have Alberta farmers donate grain for the Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital in Calgary. Money from the donated grain will be used entirely for support of the hospital. Standing beside Mr. Marler and Mr. Bowlen is Elmer E. Roper, MLA., of Edmonton, Alberta Red Cross president.

Export Of Natural Gas Only For Defence; Oil Board Will Study Further Exports

Premier E. C. Manning said this week there would be no change in the amount of natural gas to be exported to the Montana Power Company for the defence production needs of the Anaconda Copper Company.

Manning commented at his weekly press conference on a Montana report which said the power company had amended an application before its own State Board to take in "unlimited exports."

"Our legislation spells right out the maximum exportable amount," said the premier, "and it is not affected at all."

He said these limited exports were not authorized by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, which is investigating applications for major exports, but by special action of the legislature.

No further exports will be made without approval of the Board.

The legislature approved the defence exports and presumably would have to aprove any changes.

On another subject, the Premier took the opportunity to express the government's appreciation for what he termed "the splendid co-operation and assistance received from officials who are voluntarily donating their time to civil defence."

He said General F. F. Worthington, Canada's chief civil defence officer, described the Alberta set up as one of the best in Canada during a recent visit.

Asked if there has been any consideration given to relaxation of the mixed drinking ban in Calgary and Edmonton, the Premier said "no."

Train Service From Jasper Improved

Train service between Jasper, and Prince Rupert, B.C., will be increased from tri-weekly to six days a week.

J. R. McMillan, western region vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, said the change will go into effect at the end of this month.

Alberta Wheat Crop Of 160 Million Bushels Seen

The Alberta Wheat Pool estimated that the province's wheat crop will average 25 bushels per acre this year, or a total of 160,000,000 bushels.

The Wheat Pool said in its crop report that the 1951 Alberta oat crop is estimated at 128,000,000 bushels, and the barley crop at 108,000,000 bushels.

Only eight per cent of the wheat crop had been cut and less than one per cent threshed by September 8, according to the Pool report. On the same date in 1950 59 per cent of the wheat had been cut and 21 per cent threshed.

The Pool said that with a week of generally fine weather cutting is just resuming after being halted by heavy rains which fell in the last part of August.

With the exception of the odd point in Northern Alberta, the report said, crops remain undamaged from frost and a week to 10 days of hot weather would see most of the grain past the critical stage.

The report said that in the southeastern part of Alberta excessive moisture had caused a good deal of grain to sprout in the swath and, in some instances, even while standing.

TB DEATHS DECLINE

Alberta's death rate from tuberculosis for 1950 was 19.3 per 100,000 the lowest yet reported, it was revealed by C. Robert Dickey, General Secretary of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association. Total number of deaths was 173.

The tuberculosis control program in Alberta is second to none in the continent, according to Mr. Dicky, and is steadily improving, with expanding community surveys through the Christmas Seal mobile units, and extension in TB screening of hospital admissions.

Membership Increase In ACT Committee

An increase of 17 members in five years on the Crippled Children's Committee was the highlight of the report given by C. S. "Mickey" McNabb at the last meeting of the A.C.T.

Mr. McNabb, committee chairman, also announced the plans for this year's Search for Talent programs.

Marv Henderson, a past vice-president of the Winnipeg ACT club, inducted seven new members to the Edmonton branch.

The first part of the meeting was under the chairmanship of R. H. Mairs, and the latter part under the direction of J. R. Simpson, chairman of the program committee.

New Oil Field Reported Found

What may be another productive field for oil-rich Alberta seems to be shaping up.

The British American and Cities Service Company reported they have brought in a new well near Clive, Alberta, and that it might be the start of a new field in the area.

The well, Clive Number One, was pouring out gas at the rate of 400,000 cubic feet per day and oil in excess of 50 barrels an hour.

The company said it holds a block of 1,000 acres in the new discovery area, about 30 miles northeast of Red Deer.

Duperron - Cyr Pledge Vows

PLAMONDON — A beautiful wedding of interest in a double-ring ceremony took place in Plamondon's Parish Church on Wednesday, August 15, when Evelina Cyr, eldest daughter of Mr. Philip Cyr exchanged vows with Lawrence Duperron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Duperron of Breynat.

The bride entered the church on her father's arm, and for the occasion chose a floor-length gown of heavy bridal satin, trimmed with French lace. Her floor-length veil was held to her head by a wreath of white ice-box roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only jewellery was a three strand pearl necklace and matching earrings. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Laurier Plamondon, dressed in a floor-length brocade satin gown with matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Doris Goucher, dressed in a floor-length blue taffeta dress with matching headdress, and Miss Josephine Duperron, sister of the groom, in pink. They both carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Flower girl was Irene Duperron, niece of the groom.

The groom was dressed in a grey suit. Best man was Laurier Plamondon, and the ushers were William Duperron, brother of the groom, and Arthur St. Jean. Jean.

Rev. Father Ricard officiated. The organ was played by Mrs. Octave Chevigny and the hymns were rendered by Mrs. Wilfred St. Jean, Mrs. Philip Plamondon and Mrs. Joe Bourassa.

A delicious dinner and supper was served at the bride's home to approximately 50 guests. Many beautiful gifts were received.

At night a dance was held in the Plamondon Community Hall, where a great number of friends and relatives gathered.

The newlyweds will make their home in Berny

The biggest little book in Canada

ONLY YOU know the personal story your bank book tells. Did you know there are 8,000,000 such bank books in Canada? Each contains information that is strictly private, each represents "money in the bank".

Your money is part of the grand total of these little books — a great pool of deposits mobilized and safeguarded in Canada's 3,700 branch banks.

Your money in the bank and that of millions like you, enables the banks to provide the credit that helps keep Canadians producing, manufacturing, marketing.

Letter to Louisa

DEAR LOUISA—Do you think it is better for school girls to go with boys their own age or with older men?

My sister says that she allows her daughter to go with older men because they are better able to take care of her than younger boys, but I don't agree with her, do you? I think she is safer with boys of her own age.

MRS. J.E.M.

ANSWER — About the only time your daughter will be safer with older men is in case they are attacked by gunmen or under similar circumstances. Otherwise I would greatly prefer a daughter of mine to be associating with someone of her own age.

To begin with, school girls and boys fall in and out of love, as a usual thing, every few months. They go merrily on their way and in the usual course of events meet someone they truly love and settle down. They are as old mentally and emotionally as their associates and able to hold their own ideals, whatever the opinions of others may be.

But an older man, unless he is of fine character, has an advantage over a school girl. She will more readily accept this way of thinking as she feels that he knows so much more than she does.

Unfortunately, most of the older men who choose to go with school girls rather than their sisters, do so because they consider them easy marks. Occasionally, of course, there are good men who are attracted by the youthful appeal of school girls and have no evil intentions toward them. However, even that is bad in a way, for they induce these girls to get married before they are ready for marriage and before the girl's ideas of love are definitely formed. It is a pathetic sight to me to see little girls, who should be getting their education and enjoying parties and dances with other young folks, tied down to the business of baby-tending and drudgery before they know what it is all about.

By all means encourage your daughter to go with boys of her own age and make your home an inviting place for them to visit.

LOUISA.

DEAR LOUISA—My child has always made the highest mark in her grade but this year she has come second every term. I think the teacher has a spite against her and I have a good mind to go to see her and tell her what I think of her. Do you think it would do any good or be worse for my daughter?

MRS. D. W. L.

ANSWER—I think it would be bad for both you and your daughter, should you approach the teacher in your present frame of mind and with such an attitude.

Have you ever realized that it isn't the marks your child gets at school, but what she gets out of her books and retains in her mind that matters?

The trouble with you is vanity. You want your child to get the highest marks in the grade, not because it shows that she has learned a great deal, but because you can have the pleasure of boasting about it.

If you are worried because you think your child is not getting what she should out of her books, go to the teacher and have a good co-operative talk with her and try to find out how you can help, but don't make a spectacle of yourself by having a row with the teacher because some other child has probably studied a little harder than yours has.

LOUISA.

Visit Many Places During Holidays

WASKATENAU—Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Elliot and boys returned recently from their holidays, during which they spent a week at Ashmont Beach, visited Dewberry, Paradise Valley, Vermilion and Marshall, Sask. Mrs. Elliot's niece, Yvonne Redman, accompanied the family on their return, and is attending school in Waskatenau.

On the holiday week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot, with Mr. and Mrs. W. Gunn of Ponoka, went on an enjoyable motor trip to Great Falls, Montana, where they spent two days sight seeing. The ladies enjoyed shopping in the American stores. A visitor who remains for at least 48 hours is allowed to bring across the border goods (for personal or household use) to the value of $100.

Will Mine Oil Deposits In Northern Tar Sands

The rich oil deposits in Northern Alberta's tar sands will have to be mined, rather than drilled in the orthodox manner of oil production, Mines and Minerals Minister N. E. Tanner said in a policy statement covering development of the multi-million barrel tar sands.

Tanner outlined newly drafted exploration, leasing and royalty regulations during the government-sponsored symposium held this week at the University of Alberta.

Over 100 oil experts, representing major companies on this continent attended the conference, featuring an exchange of ideas on whether economic development of the deposits, located along the Athabasca River, would be feasible.

The sands cover some 10,000 square miles and contain a minimum of 1,000,000,000 barrels of oil, according to published estimates.

Tanner said "Our policy has been adopted to encourage immediate private development to meet the ever-increasing demand for petroleum products and offset the effect of the uncertainty of supply elsewhere in the world."

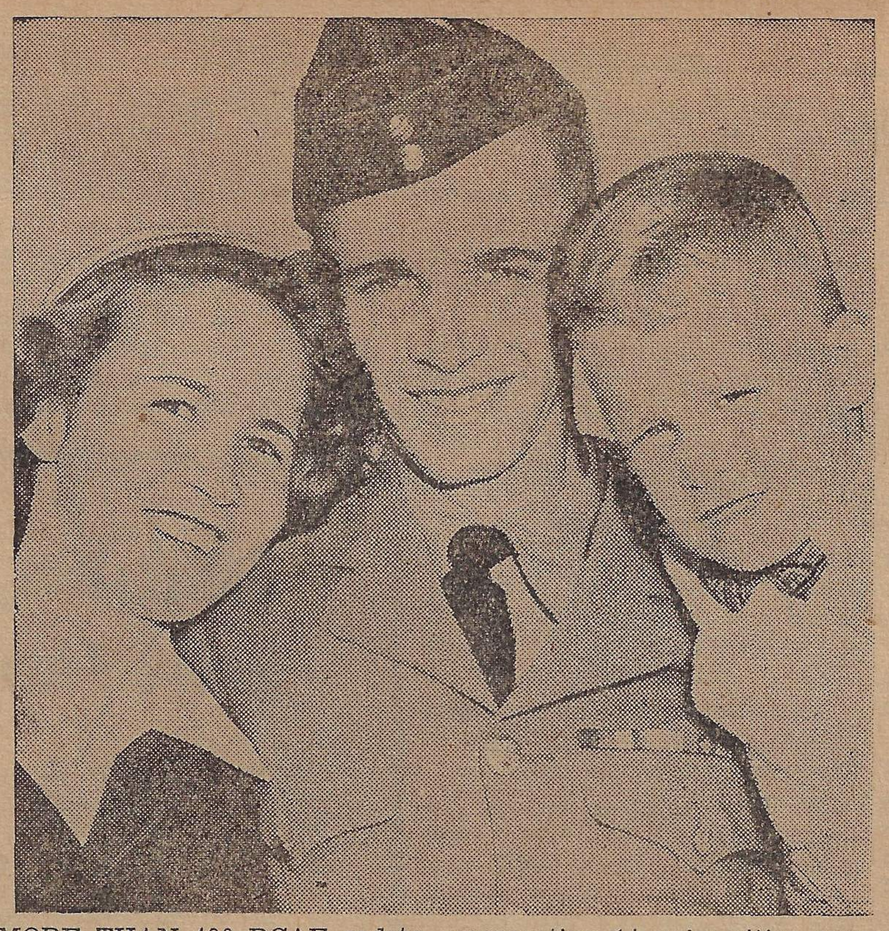

Key points of Tanner's policy statement were:

The government will introduce a $25 licence for the right to carry out sub-surface geological exploration. A $1,000 deposit will also be demanded by the government to guarantee proper exploration.

When a firm selects what area it seeks to develop, it will be required to take out a prospecting permit covering not more than 50,000 acres. The permit will cost $250 with a rental of five cents per acre for the first year, plus a $50,000 deposit to guarantee satisfactory exploration once again.

MARSHALL STEPS DOWN

WASHINGTON — (BUP) —General George C. Marshall has resigned as American secretary of defence, just one year to the day after he was nominated for that post by President Truman. He will be succeeded by Deputy Secretary Robert Lovett. Marshall said he was quitting with "deep regret." However, he revealed that when he took the post of Defence Secretary until last June 30.
he had agreed to keep it only

Missed the Menu

A missionary, captured by cannibals, was just going to be put into the cooking-pot when he was offered one last chance by the chief of the tribe.

"If you can show me something I've never seen before, I'll set you free."

The missionary took from his pocket a cigarette-lighter and flicked the wheel. A flame instantly appeared from the wick. The chief was astounded and exclaimed: "You can go free. That's the first one of those things I've ever seen that lights the first time."

Why?

"The duties of a soldier" was the title of the lecture given by an officer to his men. With a view to learning how far they had grasped the essential facts, he turned to one man and said: "Now, why should a soldier be ready to die for his country?"

The warrior ruminated for a moment, then smiled engagingly: "Yes, sir," he said pleasantly. "You're quite right. Why should he?"

Wild Oil Well Here Tamed By Workers In Gas Masks

A wild well in the Acheson oil field, seven miles from Edmonton, was tamed Tuesday, and the danger of "another Atlantic No. 3" passed.

"There isn't a leak anywhere," said a spokesman for California Standard. "It looks like we've got it sealed off for good."

Drilling was expected to continue at the site within a week. Workers will first clean up the rig and surrounding country side, and "restore circulation in the well."

The Acheson rogue blew wild Sunday when it "lost circulation" as specially-treated mud poured down the hole during drilling dropped through the casing when the well penetrated an open, porous zone. First gas, then gas and oil, shot skyward through the open hole, taking four lengths of pipe with it.

The well's circulation will be restored by again pouring mud down the hole. The valve below the preventer was damaged when the well went wild.

Officials estimated 10,000 barrels of oil spewed from the well during the two days it was wild. Oil that shot skyward left miniature lakes and a black blanket covering the surrounding barley field and trees within a radius of half a mile. Efforts will be made to recover as much oil as possible, mostly for fear of it catching fire later.

Well-tamers, wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, walked slowly in a crouch to the base of California Standard 11-11, which spewed oil and gas 200 feet into the air for 43 hours.

They repaired a valve on the casing immediately below the blow-out preventer, and the well was capped about 1:00 p.m. Workers pumped thousands of gallons of water down the hole to "beat down the terrific pressure."

World Series Start Decided

NEW YORK — (BUP) — The 1951 World Series will open either on October 3 or 4.

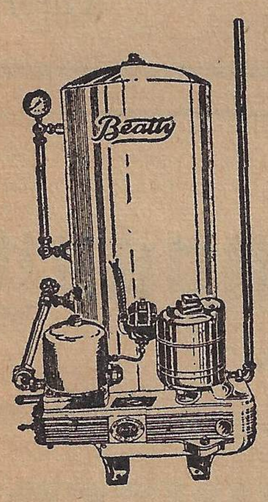

Officials of the five pennant contenders in both leagues decided that at a meeting in New York. The series gets underway in an American League Park this year. If Boston or New York wins — or a playoff is necessary —the take-off will be on the fourth.

Down-town Jewellery Store Being Built

LAC LA BICHE — Jack Wolstenholme, well-known and popular jeweller and officer in the Lac la Biche Sea Cadets, is building a new jewellery store and watch repair shop in the down-town area. It is nearly completed as this is written and is situated opposite the Treasury Branch.

Mr. Wolstenholme has been in town for 20 years and during his lifetime has served in two world wars. Formerly a Regimental Sergeant-Major in the Active Army, he is now a Lieutenant in the local Sea Cadet Corps. His son is at present overseas with the Exeter II and crew visiting in France.

Building of the new jewellery store in downtown area is a natural development of Mr. Wolstenholme's expanding business in this growing tow. A new stock of watches, rings and other jewellery will be added to the present stock and Mr. Wolstenholme expects to open officially at the new location about October 1.

Dorothy, daughter of the owner, will assist her father as clerk in the new store and full attention will be given jewellery and watch repair needs of the commuity. Details of the opening will be announced in the Lac la Biche Herald.
